SLOW SKYE

The mission is to promote a deeper connection with the local culture and surroundings by focusing on quality experiences, sustainability, and respect for the environment. Slow Skye itineraries showcase hidden gems, walks, and small businesses off the tourist trail, encouraging travellers to engage in activities that allow them to appreciate the journey as much as the destination.

TRAVEL RESPONSIBLY

DO EAT SEASONAL AND LOCAL PRODUCE

DO CHOOSE BIG HIKES OVER BIG DRIVES

DON'T DUMP YOUR RUBBISH

DO PACK YOUR REUSABLE WATER
BOTTLES AND COFFEE CUPS

DON'T LEAVE THE TRAIL IF YOU'RE

ALWAYS FOLLOW THE OUTDOOR ACCESS CODE

TOP TIP

It's easy to over order when you are staying in self-catering accommodation - especially if there's a lot of you. Try meal planning ahead of time, and if you can't take food away with you at the end of your trip, donate it to the Skye and Lochalsh foodbank.

WHISKY AND FAERIES

Start your morning at the enchanting Fairy Pools, where crystal-clear waters weave through snowy peaks of the Cuillins. Continue your journey in the afternoon at the Talisker Distillery to learn about their iconic dram in an incredible location. As evening descends, end your day at The Old Inn, a cosy haven where you can enjoy hearty pub food by a roaring fire, accompanied by live music during one of the inn's spirited nights.

A SPOT OF SHOPPING

Spend a rainy day shopping for Christmas presents or souvenirs from one of Skye's talented makers – you will walk away with something unique, handcrafted and good for the planet. Pick up a Sheepskin rug at the Skye Skyns tannery and go for a wee tour to find out how they put their ecofriendly ethos into practice. Browse artisanal pottery and wares from the renound Edinbane Pottery, where you can often see the potters in action.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

Skye Adventure offer a range of winter activities: from a guided walk to ensure you take the safest route, to a day spent mountaineering and climbing the big hitters in the Cuillin range under close guidance from their expert team. If you are on a munro bagging mission, why not add in the extra challenge of bagging one of Skye's eleven munros in winter conditions – an impressive feat with dazzling, unforgettable views.

If you feel you need to practice before you tackle The Great Stone Chute under metres of snow, Skye Adventure have set up the Third Ridge climbing wall in Portree – a great day out if weather conditions aren't safe enough for an expedition up the hills themselves.

THE SOUND OF SLEAT

The south of Skye is renowned for undulating hills, tufty crofts and beautiful, remote farmland. There are stunning walks throughout this area, perfect to enjoy in the low winter sun. Our favourite secret path meanders out to the Point of Sleat beach, beginning at the Aird of Sleat, looking out to the wee isles of Rum and Eigg. Persevere down the long winding farm track to the beach, where you are likely to have the secluded white sands to yourself and a panoramic view of the stunning Ardnamurchan peninsula. Stop off at the An Crùbh cafe to refuel with homebaking and fresh coffee by a roaring fire.
